Xavier Summer Sessions Offer Mix of Courses, Low Tuition

New Orleans LA - The traditional slate of daytime and evening classes at Xavier University of Louisiana is giving way to even more and better this summer with a significant number of online/hybrid courses added to the mix.

No less than 60 online/hybrid degree-credit courses will be available this summer, including offerings in biology, business, communications, computer science, education, English, history, languages, mathematics, philosophy, political sciences, psychology, sociology, and theology. Traditional classes are available in those same areas, as well as chemistry, health, mathematics, pharmacy, and physics.

Classes will be offered in three sessions. The two five-week sessions, Summer Session I and II, begin May 23 and June 23, respectively. The eight-week session, Summer Session III, begins June 2.

All courses are available to both Xavier and non-Xavier college students. What's more, all classes (excluding pharmacy) are being offered starting at only $267 per credit hour.

Registration for all three sessions, as well as the complete list of all courses, is available at online at xulasummer.com. Call 520-7388 for more info.
