Xavier University and Ochsner Health System Receives Full Accreditation for Physician Assistant Program

NEW ORLEANS – Xavier University of Louisiana, in partnership with Ochsner Health, has received national accreditation from the Accreditation Review Commission on Education for the Physician Assistant (ARC-PA) for its Physician Assistant \(PA\) Program. The PA Program started the accreditation process in 2019. The recent accreditation makes Xavier one of four colleges in Louisiana, one of two in New Orleans, and one of only seven Historically Black Colleges and Universities in the nation to offer the program.

The American Academy of PAs estimates there are more than 168,300 PAs in the United States today, and according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the demand for physician assistants is projected to grow 37 percent from 2016 to 2026. Currently, Ochsner has more than 180 PAs working across its health system. ARC-PA is the accrediting agency that protects the interests of the public and PA profession by defining the standards for PA education and evaluating PA educational programs within the territorial United States to ensure their compliance with those standards. The process has three different stages: initial, provisional, and final.

“Xavier is committed to producing exceptional servant leaders who positively impact the communities they serve, and the full accreditation of its Physician Assistant program is an example of that commitment,” said Marguerite Giguette, Ph.D., Provost and Senior Vice President of Academic Affairs of Xavier University of Louisiana. “Our students are trained to fight inequity and disparity, and we are proud of their progress as they live out the university’s mission to promote a more just and humane society. We are proud to continue deepening the partnership between Xavier and Ochsner Health, especially as we embark on the journey to open the Xavier Ochsner College of Medicine to fight health inequities and disparities in New Orleans and beyond.”

The PA Program has graduated 108 students so far, and approximately 48% have accepted jobs with Ochsner Health. The PA program is an evolution in a long-standing relationship with Ochsner, which dates to the early 1980s when Ochsner and Xavier’s College of Pharmacy established an affiliation agreement partnership to provide educational experiences to pharmacy students. Through this partnership, Ochsner has provided clinical training for an average of 80 Xavier pharmacy students each year. Most recently, the two institutions partnered to create the Ochsner Health and Xavier University Institute for Health Equity and Research \(OXIHER\) and the Xavier Ochsner College of Medicine, which will be the only HBCU medical school in the Gulf South when it opens.

“The PA program is another example of how Xavier University of Louisiana and Ochsner are partnering to train the next generation of healthcare professionals who represent the communities they serve. In creating this program, we are training a new cohort of physician assistants who will practice locally and throughout the region with a focus on health equity and patient-centered care,” said Leonardo Seoane, M.D., FACP, Founding Dean of the Xavier Ochsner College of Medicine and Senior Vice President and Chief Academic Officer of Ochsner Health System.

Following three semesters of classroom instruction, the PA students complete approximately 2,000 hours of hands-on clinical experience through 11 rotations at various Ochsner facilities. Students work and study with healthcare professionals across multiple specialties, including Family Medicine, Internal Medicine, Pediatrics, General Surgery, Emergency Medicine, Behavioral Health and Women's Health.

Founding Physician Assistant Program Director Varsha Castro Gusman ('06), PA-C, oversees the program and serves as an instructor, mentor, and advisor to students. Gusman, a Xavier alumna, has been a practicing Ochsner Health PA in Neuro Critical Care for over 11 years.

"This is a milestone celebration for both Xavier and Ochsner Health. The legacy that we have created will greatly impact the health of the diverse communities that we serve. We have the potential to diversify the PA profession and make a direct impact by eliminating health disparities in our communities. I firmly believe that we will become a national leader in the advancement of PA education and become one of the top PA programs in the country," said Gusman.

About Xavier University of Louisiana

On the cusp of celebrating its first 100 years of service, Xavier University of Louisiana remains America's only historically Black and Catholic University and is ranked among the top HBCUs (historically Black colleges and universities) in the nation. Recognized as a national leader in STEM and health sciences, Xavier has historically produced more African American students who graduate from medical schools each year than any other university in the United States. Additionally, Xavier's College of Pharmacy is among the country's top producers of African American pharmacists.

Established almost a century ago in 1925 by Saint Katharine Drexel and the Sisters of the Blessed Sacrament as a place for African Americans and Native Americans to receive a quality education, Xavier has since expanded its programs in nearly every industry, including the arts, sciences, business, education, pharmacy, and political science. More recent additions in STEM-based master's programs and undergraduate options in robotics, bioinformatics, engineering, data science, neuroscience, and genetics, have provided Xavier students (3,181 students) an unbeatable experience of traditional classroom study, hands-on research, service-learning opportunities, and life experiences. Xavier students collaborate with world-renowned faculty and experts in their fields to produce award-winning research and notable work. The winning Xavier formula provides students with a well-balanced curriculum and an environment that nurtures their intellect and feeds their souls, developing all who choose to learn at the institution into the next generation of leaders and agents of positive change. Blessed with a mission to promote a more just and humane society, Xavier is leading the way to a brighter future for all.
